SNIFFING OUT UNLICENSED PETS

Toronto cops help nab global fugitive

As seen on America’s Most Wanted. Albanian man from Macedonia accused of organized crime, drug offences

A man wanted by the FBI and featured on the TV show America’s Most Wanted has been caught in Toronto.

Toronto police say the fugitive squad arrested Kujtim (Timmy) Lika on Thursday morning through a joint investigation between city police and the Canada Border Services Agency.

Police say Lika, 47, is wanted for alleged offences related to organized crime and conspiracy to distribute narcotics.

Lika is being held in Toronto, where he will begin his extradition proceedings.

The America’s Most Wanted website says the FBI identified Lika as an Albanian illegal immigrant from Macedonia.

Toronto police helped the FBI nab Lika’s accomplice — Myfit (Mike) Dika — in 2010 and have been looking for Lika ever since. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Musician. Atlantic City murder victim remembered

When Anna Guo heard in the news that a 47-year-old Scarborough woman and her 80-year-old mother were killed outside an Atlantic City casino, she had a bad feeling.

Guo, a renowned performer of the Chinese yangqin (hammered dulcimer), immediately called her student, Alice Mei See Leung, at her office at Toronto's Century Iron Mines Corp.

"Someone else answered the phone and I knew it was a bad sign," Guo said Thursday. "The person said Alice had passed away. I felt sick to the stomach."

In fact, Guo had hoped to catch up with Leung over the long weekend, but Leung, an accounting manager, said she and her mother were going out of town and would talk to her when she returned.

Guo had been Leung's music teacher for 15 years and never thought her beloved student would not return from her trip.

Leung and her mother, Po Lin Wan, died in hospital from multiple stab wounds after they were attacked during a failed robbery of a purse outside Bally's casino.

Guo was giving a concert in Markham in 1996 when she met Leung.

Leung admired traditional Chinese music, especially the yangqin, so much that she walked up to Guo and asked if she could be her student.

Leung also started taking erhu (Chinese fiddle) lessons from Guo's husband, Seng Mao Hong, and became one of a handful yangqin players in the Toronto Chinese Orchestra.

Cab driver charged with murder released on bail

Longboarder killed last week. Defence lawyer reiterated Thursday that what happened was not a case of road rage

A Toronto taxi driver charged with killing longboarder Ralph Bissonnette on King Street East last week was released on $200,000 bail Thursday.

Adib Ibrahim, 43, appeared in front of Superior Court Justice Ian Nordheimer in a courtroom packed with more than 100 supporters, including family, friends and many cab drivers.

Crown attorney Hank Goody told the judge he was consenting to Ibrahim's release on the condition that he is not to be outside his residence unless he is in the company of one of his four sureties — his wife, sister and two cousins.

He is permitted to be alone outside his home in the event of a medical emergency or to consult his lawyer.

Ibrahim is also prohibited from driving and must maintain employment with a car care services company to be conducted within his residence. The father of three from Ethiopia is required to surrender his driver's licence, Metro Taxi licence and his passport.

Ibrahim is charged with second-degree murder.

Bissonnette, 28, died after he was hit by a silver Toyota hybrid taxi around 6 p.m., leaving a bloody scene near King and George streets, just east of Jarvis Street. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Surveillance video

Police obtained surveillance video that they allege captured part of the incident.

- Bissonnette appears to be making contact with the passenger side around the front of the door and mirror. The video has no audio, but witnesses heard the two exchanging words, though none has said specifically what was said. The taxi suddenly veered to the right, mounted the curb and struck Bissonnette.

Taxi driver Adib Ibrahim, charged with second-degree murder in the death of longboarding chef Ralph Bissonnette, was released on bail Thursday. He is scheduled to appear in court again on May 29. CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Gearing up for Gumball

Gumball 3000 road rally. More than 200 car enthusiasts will be showcasing in this year's tour, which makes a pit stop in TO

PHOEBE HO
for Metro in Toronto

Rapper Eve, seen here in a past Gumball 3000 event, will be making her way up to Toronto tomorrow. CONTRIBUTED

This year's international Gumball 3000 road rally may be a little greener than usual thanks to one entrant who's putting electric cars to the test.

Karta Healy plans to tour with the first electric car to be seen in the rally, currently in its 14th year. But instead of charging a single car throughout the seven-day, 3,000-mile route to Los Angeles from New York, he will be driving many cars, switching just before their batteries die out.

"When the batteries run out of one car, he's having another electric car waiting, doing a relay across North America," said Gumball founder Maximillion Cooper, adding the event has seen many eco cars but due to limited technology they've mainly been hybrids.

"There's not one electric car that's been manufactured yet that can drive 3,000 miles in a week."

More than 200 car enthusiasts will be showcasing in this year's tour, which makes a pit stop in Toronto Friday and includes big names such as David Hasselhoff, Xzibit and David Guetta.

Cooper will be riding with his girlfriend, rapper-songwriter Eve, who will be sporting a 1965 Shelby Cobra. It's her third year driving in the rally.

"The first year I did it, it was the most exciting week of my life, the adrenaline was crazy and so I told myself every year I'm going to do this," she said.

Cooper said he started the rally to create a lifestyle brand that would combine his passion for music, film, fashion and sports. But mainly, it was for the adventure.

Go gumball!

The Gumball 3000 rally will make its way into Yorkville Friday night around 9 p.m. It'll head out to Detroit Saturday morning.

Cyclist accident. Cabbie pleads not guilty to aggravated assault

A cabbie who mangled the leg of a cyclist during a late-night dispute says he accidentally reversed into the man after he threatened to shoot him.

"I thought he was going to kill me," Sultan Ahmed, 42, testified Thursday.

Ahmed has pleaded not guilty to aggravated assault and various driving offences causing bodily harm.

He admits to injuring former cyclo-cross enthusiast Krzysztof (Chris) Kasztelewicz, 40, who had his right leg amputated above the knee.

Ahmed testified he was driving south on Dovercourt Rd. around 2:20 a.m. on Nov. 14, 2008, when Kasztelewicz rode into the intersection at Argyle St., forcing him to brake.

The cyclist fell to the pavement. Ahmed said he drove around the man, who yelled at him to stop, which he did at a nearby curb.

"He came to my window. He was very angry. He was swearing. He was yelling," he said through an Urdu interpreter.

Kasztelewicz testified Monday and it was Ahmed, not him, who swore and was aggressive.

But Ahmed said Thursday that Kasztelewicz opened his door and grabbed him, punched him twice in the head and kicked him twice in the chest as he fell to the ground. Ahmed said he got into his cab and reversed it to escape. "I hit a pole or something," he testified. "It came to my mind that I might have hit that person," he said.

Who's your doggy: Toronto pushing for more pet licences

New plan. City councillor says they want vets to ask owners whether their pet has a licence

The city is planning a push to expand the number of dogs and cats that are licensed, in part by offering a rewards program and convincing owners the fee is not a tax and will go toward animal welfare.

While a licence is legally required, only about 30 per cent of dogs and 10 per cent of cats in the city have licences and wear tags.

The full licensing strategy isn't due until the fall, but the city wants to sell people on the merits of licensing, including the fact that it helps identify and return lost pets. The strategy will also count on sympathy for animals in general, Coun. Glenn De Baeremaeker said.

"Licensing revenue helps other pets who end up in our shelters by the thousands," he said. "We'll tell people that when you pay the fee, it goes to feed and take care of stray, lost or sick animals in our shelters.

"It doesn't disappear into the police department or the fire department. It stays with Animal Services."

The city's auditor general has recommended setting licensing targets of 40 per cent for dogs and 20 per cent for cats, which would increase the number of licences to 150,600 from 93,600 and hike annual revenues to $3.6 million from $2.3 million.

Expanded licensing and enhanced adoption efforts could reduce the number of animals that are killed, which was the fate of about 6,000 of the 11,427 cats taken in by Animal Services last year.

'I'd like to make a deposit.' Man pays off $100K student loan with sack of cash

There is only one way to pay off a $114,460.30 student loan in one go: In style.

For University of Toronto law graduate Alex Kenjeev, that meant strolling to the bank and dropping a Longo's reusable bag stuffed with bills onto the counter.

"I would like to make a deposit," he said to the cashier.

The cashier was floored — and so was the Internet, after an unknown friend took Kenjeev's Facebook photo of the bank receipt and posted it on Reddit, where it got thousands of comments.

"It was a spontaneous decision," Kenjeev said. "It's a milestone in your life to be debt-free all of a sudden and I thought: Why not have a bit of fun with it?"

Kenjeev, who graduated in 2009, is president of O'Leary Ventures, a start-up investment company owned by Kevin O'Leary, of Dragon's Den. He recently sold his software startup and decided to free himself of his remaining debt.

Air ambulance service

Ornge is running a deficit, say Tories

The Progressive Conservatives say new documents show Ontario's troubled air ambulance service is running a $14.5-million deficit. The documents are dated more than a year ago.

Since then, the government has replaced the board of directors and its former CEO, Chris Mazza, and called in police to investigate financial irregularities. Ornge says the board approved a balanced budget for fiscal 2012/13 and Ornge is not asking the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care for additional funding.

McGuinty muses on cheaper tolls for 407 stretch

Commuter relief.
New $1.6-billion east extension is set to take three years to build

Drivers in the Toronto area will have a new route reaching east of the city, but it's expected to be more than three years before the new toll road is built.

Work will begin this fall on the long-promised extension of Highway 407 East, a 22-kilometre stretch from Brock Road in Pickering to Harmony Road in Oshawa, Premier Dalton McGuinty said Thursday.

The extension will be owned by the province, but drivers will still have to pay to use the route that runs north of the city, he said.

"We'll set the tolls, we'll set the service standards and we'll collect those revenues to benefit Ontarians themselves," McGuinty said during a visit to the 407 ETR maintenance yard.

"We'll consult with Ontarians. I can assure you that (tolls) will not be higher than the 407 ETR tolls. We hope that they'll be lower, but I'm not making a commitment in that regard at this point in time. But we want to ensure that they are reasonable."

The current rates for using the existing 407 range from 19 cents during evenings and weekends to 25 cents during prime hours.

Construction is expected to be finished by the end of 2015. The second phase of the project, extending the 407 further east to Highway 35/115, should be completed by 2020. The contract, which is valued at $1.6 billion, has been awarded to SNC-Lavalin and Cintra Infraestructuras SA.

Job creation

The project will create 900 direct construction jobs and thousands of spin-off jobs, said Premier Dalton McGuinty.

The consortium will receive annual payments from the province over 30 years to cover the costs of designing, building and maintaining the road, the government said.

The two companies are part owners of 407 International Inc., which operates the existing 108 kilometre toll road under a 99-year lease. Canada Pension Plan Investment Board owns a 40 per cent stake in the company.

The previous conservative government decided in 1998 to privatize the 407 in a $3.1-billion deal.

Budget tests Liberal-NDP marriage

Premier Dalton McGuinty may be regretting he didn't sign a budget pre-nup before his shotgun "happy marriage" to the New Democrats. The minority Liberals and the NDP — who joined forces a mere month ago — are clashing over a pending vote on the budget bill, which has stalled in the legislature.

The minority Liberals accuse the NDP of blocking the legislation and breaking their vow to pass the budget. But the New Democrats say they only agreed to allow the budget to pass its first hurdle in the legislature, so it could be debated and amended if necessary.

With the legislature set to rise June 7, there's little time left to implement key tax measures the NDP demanded, such as stopping a scheduled corporate tax cut on July 1 and hiking taxes for the wealthy.

Finance Minister Dwight Duncan warned if the budget isn't passed by the summer, the province's credit rating and plan to slay its $15-billion deficit will be in jeopardy.

Alleged thief found snoozing at crime scene

Chatham-Kent police made an easy arrest after a man allegedly broke into a building, stole a ring and fell asleep before he could make his escape.

Officers responded to a break-and-enter around 10:30 a.m. Wednesday when the owner found a 19-year-old man sleeping inside the building on Wallace Street in Wallaceburg.

According to police, the man forced his way into the building from the back door, causing about $50 in damage, and another $50 from cutting the alarm-system wires.

After searching the man, police found a gold ring that was stolen from a jewelry box in the building and a bag of suspected cocaine.

He's been charged with break and enter, mischief under $5,000, theft under $5,000, possession of property under $5,000 obtained by a crime and drug possession.

CP Rail customers look for alternatives during strike

Day 2. Oil, fertilizer, potash among industries affected by Teamsters' walkout

Companies that rely on Canadian Pacific Railway to move their products across the country were looking at their alternatives on Day 2 of a walkout by 4,800 employees.

CP suspended all freight shipments in Canada — affecting oil, coal, automotive, fertilizer and lumber industries, among others — after workers represented by the Teamsters Canada Rail Conference went on strike early Wednesday.

Cenovus Energy Inc. moves about 2,000 barrels of oil per day by rail from its Bakken fields in Saskatchewan. That's not a lot for a company that produced 156,850 barrels per day during its most recent quarter.

Still, the oil company says it has felt a hit due to the CP strike.

"We have been affected," spokeswoman Jessica Wilkinson said Thursday.

"In the meantime, we're looking to secure pipeline capacity to move that oil and we're confident we're going to get the pipeline capacity."

Other industries aren't as fortunate when it comes to having a Plan B.

Fertilizer producers have few, if any, fallback options, said transportation consultant Tom Maville, who works with the Canadian Fertilizer Institute.

Last year 28 million tonnes of fertilizer were produced in Canada, most of which was transported to market by rail.

Of that, about eight million tonnes of potash moved from 10 mines in Saskatchewan to the Port of Vancouver along Canadian Pacific's tracks.

Potash trains can stretch more than two kilometres in length. It would take two and a half trucks to move what a single railcar can, said Maville.

"You'd need thousands of trucks, and they'd have to be specialized. They're just not there."

Canadian Pacific Rail locomotives sit idle at the company's Port Coquitlam yard east of Vancouver on Wednesday. About 4,800 CP Rail workers are currently on strike. DARRYL DYCK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Maville said there's limited storage capacity at the potash mines and at the ports, especially since it's the height of Canada's growing season.

"In very short time there's going to be nowhere to put the product, which means you shut down mines, you close down plants and you lay off people," he said.

"That is a worst-case scenario, but that is the reality of what could happen here."

Funding student groups.
Financing laws must be followed, province says

Quebec's striking student organizations have been warned to respect provincial election laws if they want to make good on their promise to help defeat Jean Charest's Liberal government.

The student groups, which have received considerable funding from unions inside and outside the province, have been told they will need to abide by laws that set strict limits on contributions.

The warning from Quebec's elections watchdog was prompted by a recent public pledge from the major student associations to launch an offensive against the governing Liberals in the next election.

The Canadian Press reported this week that tens of thousands of dollars in donations have already been shipped to student activists from unions outside and inside the province and, as the conflict drags on, new financial contributions are pouring in. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mass roundup of students triggers new attempt at talks

Surreal scenes of mass arrests in various parts of Quebec, with over 650 people rounded up in different cities for a variety of reasons, have spurred a new attempt at resolving a dispute that has catapulted the province onto international news pages.

The provincial education minister said Thursday that she expected to hold a "very, very important" meeting with student groups, likely early next week, after having had positive discussions over the phone.

Restoring order in time for the tourist-filled festival season, which starts in only a few weeks, appears a monumental task given the events that unfolded in the wee hours.

A peaceful evening march that began with people festively banging pots and pans ended with police using the controversial "kettling" tactic on a crowd of demonstrators and arresting 518 people in Montreal. Scores of others were arrested elsewhere in the province.

"Six-hundred-fifty-one — that's the number of arrests yesterday ... of ordinary citizens, men, women, young people arrested because they wanted to voice their opposition to decisions of the Liberal regime," PQ Leader Pauline Marois said, calling it the worst social crisis in Quebec's history.

"That's where the Quebec Liberal Party has taken us: Mass arrests, more often than not arbitrary ones, to silence opposition." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Suspect detained in missing-child mystery from 1979

Man confesses. After 33 years, case of first missing kid on a milk carton may at last have an ending

Etan Patz, then six, has been missing since he left for school in 1979.
STANLEY K. PATZ/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A New York City law-enforcement official said Thursday that a man has told police that he suffocated Etan Patz, the six-year-old boy whose disappearance on his way to school in 1979 helped give rise to the missing-children's movement that put youngsters' faces on milk cartons.

Pedro Hernandez was picked up late Wednesday in New Jersey, according to a law-enforcement official, and was being questioned Thursday by the Manhattan district attorney's office.

Hernandez worked at a convenience store in the downtown Manhattan neighbourhood in which Patz and his parents lived, and moved to New Jersey shortly after the boy disappeared 33 years ago, according to a second law-enforcement official. He has been tied to the case in the past, and investigators recently received a phone call that tipped them off to him, the officials said.

Hernandez said he suffocated the boy, then put the body in a box, walked down the street and left the box in an alley, the first official said. No body or box has been recovered, and Hernandez has not been charged.

Investigators said they were still trying to confirm details of the man's story. The development came just before the Friday anniversary of Etan's disappearance, when detectives typically receive a landslide of hoaxes and false leads.

"Let me caution you that there's still a lot of investigating to do," Mayor Michael Bloomberg said.

A woman who answered the door at Hernandez's Maple Shade, N.J., home confirmed he was in custody.

Norway massacre

If found sane, killer will not appeal verdict

The Norwegian right-wing extremist who has admitted to killing 77 people in a massacre last year said Thursday that he doesn't plan to appeal the verdict if an Oslo court deems him sane.

Two psychological examinations carried out before the 10-week trial reached opposite conclusions on whether Anders Breivik is psychotic — the key issue to be resolved during the trial, which began in mid-April.

Breivik has confessed to the July 22 massacre when he gunned down 69 people at a youth retreat on Utoya island after setting off a bomb in central Oslo that killed eight others. But he denies criminal guilt for the rampage, saying the victims had betrayed their country by embracing immigration.

"If I'm found sane, I have no grounds to appeal," the 33-year old suspect said at the end of Thursday's proceedings in Oslo. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

War on terror. U.S. cuts aid to Pakistan after doctor's arrest

A Senate panel expressed its outrage Thursday over Pakistan's conviction of a doctor who helped the United States track down Osama bin Laden, cutting aid to Islamabad by $33 million — $1 million for every year of the physician's 33-year sentence for high treason.

The punitive move came on top of deep reductions the appropriations committee already had made to President Barack Obama's budget request for Pakistan, a reflection of the growing congressional anger over its lack of co-operation in combating terrorism.

The overall foreign-aid budget for next year had slashed more than half of the proposed assistance and threatened further reductions if Islamabad failed to open overland supply routes to U.S.-led NATO forces in Afghanistan.

Pushing aside any diplomatic talk, Republicans and Democrats criticized Pakistan a day after the conviction in Pakistan of Shakil Afridi. The doctor ran a vaccination program for the CIA to collect DNA and verify bin Laden's presence at the compound in Abbottabad where U.S. commandos found and killed the al-Qaida leader in May 2011. Sled-dog trial moved after safety concerns

Threats. Crown's case against man charged in the slaughter of 56 animals near Whistler, B.C. will now be heard in North Vancouver

Safety concerns have prompted a change in venue for the case of a man charged in the slaughter of 56 sled dogs near Whistler, B.C., two years ago.

Robert Fawcett's lawyer appeared on his behalf in provincial court in Pemberton on Thursday, but the matter will be moved to North Vancouver on June 19.

Crown spokesman Neil MacKenzie said there are concerns over courthouse security.

"The sheriffs will be better able to manage any concerns that might arise at their facilities in North Vancouver," he said outside the small two-storey building in Pemberton.

Robert Fawcett has been charged in the deaths of 56 sled dogs. MATT MURRAY/THE CANADIAN PRESS

MacKenzie said he understands there have been some threats made against Fawcett although he's not directly aware of any himself.

As for whether protesters might be expected outside the court, MacKenzie said he can't say.

Fawcett faces one count of causing unnecessary pain and suffering to the dogs in the animal-cruelty case that has drawn international attention.

Fifty-six dogs were dug up in a mass grave near Whistler after information leaked out in January 2011 through a workers-compensation claim of post-traumatic stress disorder.

Bob Fawcett also posted details on a PTSD website, describing how panicked animals were shot or had their throats slit before being dumped into the grave.

The animals had been a tourist draw during the 2010 Vancouver Olympics.

After the information leaked out about the cull, Fawcett and the company that bought his business, Outdoor Adventures, issued a statement in February 2011 that many of the dogs were old and sick and that efforts to have them adopted were unsuccessful.

It said no instructions were provided to Fawcett on how to kill the dogs, but that he was known to have put down dogs humanely on previous occasions.

A discovery in a Saskatoon garden suggests there may be a couple approaching a marriage milestone — without an important piece of jewelry.

Colleen Christensen says she was moving some lilies when she found a wedding ring wrapped in the plant's roots. Now she wants to find the owner. The band is engraved on the inside and says J & J 8/9/62. Christensen has checked all the owners of her Saskatoon home back to 1970 but there's been no match of initials.

Conflict 'increasingly militarized': UN

The Syrian regime and an increasingly organized rebel force are carrying out illegal killings and torturing their opponents, a UN panel says.

But government forces are still responsible for most of the violence stemming from the country's uprising, the panel said Thursday.

The findings were released in Geneva by the Independent International Commission of Inquiry on Syria, which said the conflict has become "increasingly militarized."

The report was based on hundreds of interviews since March with victims and witnesses.

Iran and six world powers to talk again in mid-June

Nuclear program. International Atomic Energy Agency to sign a deal with Iran soon to probe suspected weapons

Tough negotiations between Iran and world powers over Tehran's nuclear program ended Thursday with a plan to meet next month for another round of talks but agreement on little else.

The open channels between Iran and the six-nation bloc — the five permanent Security Council members plus Germany — are seen as the most hopeful chances of outreach between Washington and Tehran in years.

They also could push back threats of military action that have shaken oil markets and brought worries of triggering a much wider Middle East conflict.

Yukiya Amano THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

European Union foreign-policy chief Catherine Ashton said both sides agreed to continue the discussions on June 18 and 19 in Moscow in hopes of a breakthrough on international concerns about the Islamic Republic's ability to build atomic weapons.

The announcement capped two days of negotiations in Baghdad, where at times it appeared Tehran would withdraw from the talks.

Meanwhile, Yukiya Amano, director general of the International Atomic Energy Agency, says he has reached a deal with Iran on probing suspected work on nuclear weapons. The agreement will be signed soon.

Israeli leaders have been critical of the talks, claiming it allows Iran to buy time and drive a wedge between Washington and Jerusalem.

On Wednesday, Israeli Defence Minister Ehud Barak said even possible moves by Iran to open its nuclear facilities to inspection don't rule out a military strike.

Otto Jensen. 101-year-old former boxer struck and killed by driver, 91

Even at 101 years old, Otto Jensen showed little sign of slowing down. The former boxer from Denmark still ran a photography studio and often could be seen crossing the street in front of it to get to a senior centre he frequented.

On Tuesday night, while crossing that four-lane Burbank, Calif. street, Jensen was struck and killed by a car driven by a 91-year-old woman.

Jensen was a well-known figure in his hometown, where he served as grand marshal of the city's centennial parade last year. His death saddened the community just north of Los Angeles. A poster tied to a tree near the crash scene had photos of Jensen, including one taken in 1930 when he was a 19-year-old boxer nicknamed "Bonecrusher."

Police are unsure what led to the accident but said Jensen was crossing legally, although there wasn't a crosswalk where he was hit and he was nearly across the street when he was struck.

The driver, Mary Beaumont, stopped at the scene but was not arrested or cited. She said Wednesday that she was fine and declined further comment.

Legislator sent to hospital after fracas in Ukraine parliament

Opposing factions. Previous scuffles have involved flying eggs, chairs, smoke bombs

Lawmakers from pro-presidential and oppositional factions fight in the parliament session hall in Kyiv, Ukraine, on Thursday. MAKS LEVIN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A violent scuffle erupted in Ukraine's parliament Thursday evening over a bill that would allow the use of the Russian language in courts, hospitals and other institutions in the Russian-speaking regions of the country.

The fight broke out between members of the pro-Western opposition who want to take Ukraine out of Russia's shadow and lawmakers from President Viktor Yanukovych's party, which bases its support in Ukraine's Russian-speaking east.

At least one legislator, opposition lawmaker Mykola Petruk, suffered an apparent blow to the head and was taken to the hospital with blood streaming down his face.

Lawmakers have frequently scuffled in the Ukrainian parliament. A fierce fight in December 2010, which sent at least six lawmakers to the hospital, started when members of Yanukovych's party threw chairs and punched opposition lawmakers who had been blocking legislative work all day.

During a fight in April 2010, the parliament speaker hid behind an umbrella as opposition lawmakers threw eggs and smoke bombs to protest a naval pact with Russia.

Ukraine is deeply divided into the Russian-speaking east and south, which favours close ties with Moscow, and the Ukrainian-speaking west, which wants Ukraine to join the Western club.

The opposition demanded an investigation into Thursday's scuffle.

New Zealand gets tougher on smoking

Smoke-free by 2025? New Zealand announces a 40 per cent hike in tobacco taxes over the next four years

A smoker puffs on a cigarette in the business district of Auckland, New Zealand. BRETT PHIBBS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are smoke-free bars, smoke-free parks, even smoke-free college campuses.

But a smoke-free country?

New Zealand's federal government Thursday squeezed smokers more than ever by announcing a 40 per cent hike in tobacco taxes over the next four years.

Prices there are already among the highest in the world, and by 2016 they will top $15.50 Cdn a pack on average.

Officials hope that higher taxes and new restrictions will bring the country of 4.4 million closer to a recent pledge to snuff the habit entirely by 2025.

Other countries have lauded the idea of trying to wean their populace off tobacco, but few, if any, have been willing to put an actual date on it.

Health officials here are so serious they recently considered hiking the cost of a pack of cigarettes to 100 New Zealand dollars. Although that idea was dismissed, another measure, which will force retailers to hide cigarettes below the counter rather than putting them on display, will come into effect in July.

Smoking rates among New Zealand adults have fallen from about 30 per cent in 1986 to about 20 per cent today.

President's blood. Seller will now donate the vial to the Reagan foundation

An auction house on Thursday cancelled the sale of a vial containing dried blood residue said to be from U.S. President Ronald Reagan.

The house announced that the seller will instead donate the item to the late U.S. president's foundation.

The PFC Auction house, which is based in the Channel Islands between England and France, said in a statement that the seller had obtained the vial legally at a U.S. auction earlier this year.

The decision not to sell the vial was praised by the Reagan Presidential Foundation. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Swiss solar-powered plane aims to be the first to circle the globe

First leg of trip ends in Morocco. Team hoping for good weather as plane is not designed to fly in bad conditions

An experimental solar-powered airplane took off from Switzerland on its first transcontinental flight Thursday, aiming to reach North Africa next week.

Pilot Andre Borschberg planned to take the jumbo jet-size Solar Impulse plane on its first leg to Madrid, Spain, by Friday. His colleague Bertrand Piccard will take the helm of the aircraft for the second stretch of its 2,500-kilometre journey to Rabat, Morocco.

Fog on the runway at its home base in Payerne, Switzerland, delayed the takeoff by two hours, demonstrating how susceptible the prototype single-seater aircraft is to adverse weather.

The jumbo jet-sized Solar Impulse takes off from Switzerland Thursday headed for Morocco on the first leg of its planned intercontinental flight using no fuel but the sun's rays. LAURENT GILLIERON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We can't fly into clouds because it was not designed for that," Borschberg said as he piloted the lumbering plane with its 63-meter wingspan toward the eastern French city of Lyon at a cruising speed of just 70 km/h.

Before landing in Madrid in the early hours of Friday, Borschberg will face other challenges, including having to overfly the Pyrenees mountains that separate France and Spain.

Just in case things go disastrously wrong, Borschberg has a parachute inside his tiny cabin that he hopes never to use. "When you take an umbrella it never rains," he joked in a satellite call with The Associated Press.

Piccard — the son of undersea explorer Jacques Piccard and grandson of balloonist Auguste Piccard — will have to cross the windy Straits of Gibraltar from Europe to Africa.

The team has been invited to Morocco by the country's King Mohammed VI to showcase the cutting edge of solar technology.

Morocco is about to start construction on a massive solar energy plant at Ouarzazate. The plant will form part of a country-wide solar energy grid with a capacity of 2000 megawatts by 2020. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just the beginning

The mission is a dress rehearsal for a round-the-world flight in 2014.

- In 2010, the Swiss flew non-stop for 26 hours to demonstrate that the plane can stay airborne through the night.
- The project began in 2003 and is estimated to cost about $100 million over 10 years.

You might be Overpaying for Car Insurance

There are ways to save without impacting coverage

Each insurance company charges a different rate to insure the same driver with the same exact coverage – and these rates vary considerably. By not shopping around for car insurance, you could be paying hundreds, or even thousands, of dollars more than you should. Insurers use their own claims experience to determine their rates and each company will have a different history with each driving profile and car combination. This could mean that you are overpaying for car insurance – and with so many insurance companies, odds are you may not be currently insured with the company that offers the best rate for your driving profile.

The car you drive, where you live, where you drive, and your driving record are all factors that may affect your insurance rate. While most of these items are under your control, others such as the insurance company's experience and corresponding rates are not. One insurance company may charge more for being insured in your postal code, while others may charge more for insuring sport cars. Understanding all of these considerations and knowing that each insurance company charges different rates will help you find the best car insurance rate that suits your needs.

The best way to save on your car insurance is to compare your insurance rate to those offered by other companies. But it can be extremely time consuming to compare the rates individually and brokers only offer rates from 4 to 5 different companies. Web sites like InsuranceHotline.com make it easy to compare your rate against the lowest available rates within their network of over 30 insurance companies.

It's not just about saving you money. Wait, it is.

Visit InsuranceHotline.com today and experience a fast, free, and easy service that works for your wallet.

Mars rover sees its shadow, takes a 'self-portrait'

NASA's rover on Mars showed off its playful side by snapping a photo of its own shadow. It's the latest self-portrait since the rover, named Opportunity, landed on the red planet in 2004.

The photo was taken in March, and released this week. The solar-powered rover was at the rim of a massive crater. The late afternoon sun set the crater aglow, and Opportunity waited for just the right lighting to send a postcard back to Earth.

After nearly five months in one spot, the rover is rolling again to explore more rocks.

New EI rules target repeat users

Unemployment. StatsCan reported this week there were about 237,000 unfilled jobs in February

Ottawa is tightening employment-insurance eligibility with new rules that hit repeat claimants hardest, but will force all on the system to accept lower-paying jobs.

The government says it will put strict definitions on what constitutes "suitable employment" and what the unemployed must do to find a job. The rules are expected to be in effect early in 2013.

Human Resources Minister Diane Finley said the intent of changes is to get Canadians off EI and on to jobs for which they are qualified.

The changes create three categories of unemployment with a sliding scale of expectations for jobs people must accept.

Long-tenured workers, mostly employed over the past 10 years, can refuse a job outside their usual occupation that doesn't pay at least 90 per cent of their previous hourly wage. After 18 weeks, they must accept offers that pay at least 80 per cent of their previous scale.

EI claimants, who have been on the system at least three times for a total of 60 weeks over the past five years, will be expected to take a similar job that pays at least 80 per cent of their previous wage rate from the beginning. After six weeks, they will have to take any job for which they are qualified, even if it is not in the same field, at 70 per cent of the previous pay.

"Occasional claimants" must accept work paying at least 90 per cent of their previous scale in the first six weeks, 80 per cent in the next 12 weeks and 70 per cent after 18 weeks on benefits.

Canadians can withstand housing downturn: DBRS

Credit-rating agency DBRS said Thursday that average Canadian households can withstand a catastrophic drop in home prices, but warned that a rise in unemployment would be a greater concern.

The agency said a 40 per cent drop in prices or rising interest rates would put pressure on Canadian households, but not have a large impact on mortgage defaults.

"However, a combination of higher interest rates, lower property values and a drastic increase in unemployment would be of great concern as mortgage defaults are closely related to employment and individual family situations," DBRS said in a report, adding that faster debt accumulation relative to the economy as a whole or average household income have driven up both home prices and borrowing. WHOLE LOTTA LIKES FOR FACEBOOK LOVE

THE LIST
Neil Morton
Metro

1 Mark Zuckerberg marries: The 28-year-old multi-billionaire Facebook founder went and got hitched on the weekend, tying the knot with Priscilla Chan in the backyard of his Palo Alto, Calif., home. Naturally, he changed his status to married on his FB page, and a picture from the ceremony he posted has garnered more than a million "likes."

2 Elton John: The iconic singer is coming to Peterborough, of all places, on Saturday, Sept. 8. Tickets go on sale Friday at 10 a.m. for the concert at MemorialCentre.ca. Now I live in Peterborough and can tell you we haven't seen anything like this. Ever. It will take a rocket man to land tix.

3 Niagara Falls fall: A man survived a 57-metre fall from the Canadian side of Niagara Falls on Victoria Day, becoming only the third person to have gone over without a safety device and lived. The dramatic rescue involving a crane comes three weeks before daredevil Nik Wallenda's highly anticipated high-wire walk over Horseshoe Falls.

4 HuffPo turns one: A year ago this week, the news-aggregation blog Huffington Post kicked off its international expansion with the launch of its Canadian edition. A who's who of guests including Conrad Black, Jim Flaherty, Olivia Chow, Erica Ehm and Arianna Huffington herself were at a birthday shindig at their T.O. headquarters Wednesday night. I was there too but I was a who-dat.

5 Charles & Camilla: It was no Will and Kate visit in terms of hoopla and number of fans, but Canadians welcomed Charles and Camilla here this week as part of Queen Elizabeth II's Diamond Jubilee tour marking her 60th year on the throne. In Toronto, they even took a ride on a TTC bus, getting a glimpse into what us commoners deal with.

6 Celebrity Apprentice finale: Crooner Clay Aiken was runner-up on American Idol in 2003 so it was fitting he would be runner-up in the Celebrity Apprentice finale, which comedian Arsenio Hall won when Donald Trump picked him. Arsenio not only won $250,000 for his Magic Johnson Foundation charity, but paved the way for his comeback to the late talk-show world. Bring it.

7 Paul O'Sullivan: The veteran Canadian actor, who died in a car crash last Friday, was a comic genius — having been a longtime performer with the Second City improv troupe and appearing in many TV comedies. He also taught improv classes, and I had the pleasure of taking one. He was funny, humble and encouraging all at once — teaching us that laughter really is the best medicine.

8 Build the Enterprise: The USS Enterprise is a fictional ship, but is it possible that some day it could become non-fiction? Buildtheenterprise.org details how it could actually be built, and the man behind it says a fully functional Enterprise is only 20 years away if we put in the effort. Oh, and $1 trillion.

9 Howard Stern: Stern made a seven-year-old boy rapper cry on America's Got Talent when he hit the X-buzzer as judge after only a few seconds. But then the shock jock climbed the stairs to hug the boy and give him a pep talk, saying, "No one likes hitting the X on a seven-year-old. You're very brave to get up there." A softer side of Stern, at least for a few seconds.

SCENE

Scene in brief

Efron's revealing role

Zac Efron says he felt uncomfortable filming his revealing role in The Paperboy — and that's the way he wanted it. The High School Musical actor moves into grown-up territory with the film by Precious director Lee Daniels, which is screening at the Cannes Film Festival. It's a swampy slice of Southern gothic set in the 1960s, with Efron as an aspiring writer helping his journalist brother (Matthew McConaughey) investigate a possible miscarriage of justice, and falling for Nicole Kidman's sultry femme fatale.

One (and possibly the only) reason to see MIB3: Josh Brolin's Tommy Lee Jones impression. HANDOUT

Third time's not the charm

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

MIB3. Latest alien instalment from Will Smith falls flat despite a scarily good Tommy Lee Jones impression from Josh Brolin

Richard: Mark, I was six when Apollo 11 happened and was incredibly bored by the whole thing. I couldn't understand why the shows I liked were being preempted for moon launch coverage. The Cape Canaveral takeoff plays a big part in MIB3 and I felt like I was six again. Not filled with wonder but wishing I was watching something else. The movie has its moments, but by and large didn't work for me. You?

Mark: The movie was uneven to say the least. I tend to like time travel plots and I enjoy anything set in the '60s but there was a lot of dead space and repetition. But I was impressed with the art direction and Josh Brolin's scarily accurate Tommy Lee Jones impression.

RC: If this acting thing doesn't work out for Brolin he does have a future as a Tommy Lee Jones impersonator. He could do weddings and Bar Mitzvahs and make a fortune. He's that good. But I felt that despite a good bad guy, some cool creatures and Brolin, the movie didn't have the charm or the energy of the first two movies. It reminded me of another effects laden Will Smith movie — Wild Wild West.

MB: And I thought Will Smith really walked through this one as did Tommy Lee Jones. But the actor who stole the show for me was Michael Stuhlbarg who plays the autistic cosmic seer Griffin. A completely original performance of a completely original character. And Bill Hader's take on Andy Warhol made me laugh.

RC: Absolutely. Both are bright spots. I also enjoyed Smith literally hurtling through time, the idea that Mick Jagger is an alien sent to the planet to breed with Earth women and the battle in the Chinese restaurant. All cool moments, but the magic of the first film is gone — even the fun stuff in this film seems to evaporate as soon the next scene starts — and don't even get me started about the ending.

MB: Even the film's tone has a stop/start feel to it. The movie isn't quite a comedy, not quite an action flick. The original got this mix just right, the sequel was close, but the third time is not the charm.

Synopsis

As the third instalment opens, Boris the Animal — a notorious intergalactic serial killer — is forty years into a life sentence. He's locked away in the only place that will hold him, a super high security prison on the moon. After a daring escape he plans a full scale invasion of earth, but first he wants revenge on the man who put him in jail, MIB agent K (Tommy Lee Jones). The only way to thwart Boris's evil plan is for Agent J (Will Smith) to go back in time to 1969 and stop Boris.

Chernobyl Diaries

Stars. Jesse McCartney, Olivia Dudley

There isn't much redemption in watching a film like Chernobyl Diaries. Then again, there's not supposed to be. A gratuitous spectacle set at the now-abandoned site of the world's worst nuclear disaster, a group of ill-equipped tourists get stranded only to discover they're not alone. Oren Peli's (Paranormal Activity) script isn't wholly original, but mere suggestion and shaky cinematography will likely be enough to sell many tickets.

Hysteria

Director. Tanya Wexler

Stars. Maggie Gyllenhaal, Hugh Dancy, Jonathan Pryce

Set in nineteenth century London, Hysteria is a rom com about Mortimer Granville (Hugh Dancy), a young handsome doctor whose hand cramps led directly to the invention of the vibrator. As social commentary it's lightweight, and a movie about the invention of the tool that revolutionized sexuality should focus on that and not the predictable rom com love triangle. I expected more than a comedy of manners with an off-colour edge from the story. As such, this is a rental, not a night out.

RICHARD CROUSE

Comedy

Jesus Henry Christ

Director. Dennis Lee

Stars. Toni Collette, Michael Sheen

A self-consciously quirky comedy about a child prodigy searching for his biological father, Jesus Henry Christ never finds the right tone: it's whimsical one moment and violently mean-spirited the next. Jason Spevack is good as the brilliant 10-year old protagonist but the adults are cartoonishly drawn and the storytelling is ragged — especially the wildly contrived conclusion.

Documentary

Last Call At The Oasis

Director. Jessica Yu

Stars. Erin Brockovich, Tyrone Hayes

It may be as tough a sell as the bottled "reused" wastewater the film hustles but given the chance, Last Call at the Oasis is greatly convincing. An alarming documentary from Jessica Yu about the dire state of the world's aquatic resources, the film is given gravitas by everyone from enviro-experts to Jack Black. It may not bring the call to action it professes but definitely deserves attention. STEVE GOW

Director. Nadine Labaki

Stars. Claude Baz Moussawbaa, Leyla Hakim and Nadine Labaki

Caramel's Nadine Labaki co-wrote, directed and stars as a bar owner in a small Middle Eastern town where Christians and Muslims peacefully co-exist. Until now. A teen prank goes wrong, inadvertently launching a holy war that the women try to contain with manipulation, tears, Ukrainian hookers and hashish cookies. It's entertaining but has more mood swings than Cher has costume changes. This headscratcher won the People's Choice Award at TIFF 2011. ANNE BRODIE

"If Agent K were a real-life person and Josh Brolin gave the portrayal of Agent K that he gave in this movie, he'd be nominated for an Academy Award...

"It's like people just aren't even going to recognize the level and quality of the acting that he had to do, you know, being this young Tommy Lee Jones. It's just, it's brilliant."

Hollywood puts a new twist on an old children's staple — the fairy tale

Mirror, mirror. With several fairy tale films in the works in the upcoming years, which one will end up being the fairest of them all?

STEVE GOW
scene@metronews.ca

Snow White and the Huntsman is just one of several movies that is taking the fairy tale and adding an action-packed twist. HANDOUT

With Snow White and the Huntsman, starring Kristen Stewart and Charlize Theron, hitting theatres on June 1, Hollywood has effectively re-established its love affair with the fairy tale.

There's no exact reason why, but with no less than a dozen folklore-based films in production, there's one novelty to this new affection for re-inventing the fairy tale — an adventurous twist.

It's not an original idea but its surge may be in part due to producers seeking relatable franchises to compete with big money making superhero hits like The Avengers. Whether audiences will enjoy modern folktales like Sleeping Beauty takes to orthopedic mattresses is yet to be determined.

Nevertheless here are a few forthcoming fairy tale flicks:

Hansel and Gretel: Witch Hunters (January 2013)
Hansel and Gretel tells the story of two siblings who get sucked into eating an old cannibalistic lady's candy house if only to get fattened up. In this version, Hansel and Gretel have become bounty hunters who seek revenge on nasty witches.

Reason for optimism: The film stars Jeremy Renner (The Avengers). Plus, director Tommy Wirkola's cult hit Dead Snow featured Nazi zombies so this is probably going to be a pretty dark fairy tale.

Maleficent (2014)
First published in 1697, Sleeping Beauty has had many adaptations but never has the witch who cast that evil slumber spell been handed her own screenplay — until now. In Maleficent, the Sleeping Beauty story is told from the point of view of the villain and I'm guessing it's not all her fault.

Reason for optimism: Angelina Jolie is attached to play Maleficent and directing will be Robert Stromberg, the Oscar-winning production designer for Avatar.

Pan (Date TBD)
Sure, Peter Pan is J.M. Barrie's leotard-wearing Boy Who Wouldn't Grow Up but in this upcoming dramatic spin, Pan is a killer being hunted for kidnapping by a cop named Hook.

Reason for optimism: Besides a wicked plot, director Ben Hibon did some of the cool animation work in Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1.

Oz: The Great and Powerful (March 2013)
Originally published in 1900, The Wizard of Oz made its biggest mark on-screen with the 1939 classic film starring Judy Garland.

Now Sam Raimi (The Evil Dead) is completing the origin story of how that simple circus magician became the wonderful Wiz.

Reason for optimism: James Franco plays the Wiz. Plus, who wouldn't want to see Raimi's version of a flying monkey?

What about Jack?

Jack the Giant Killer

Set for release in March 2013, this film is closely associated with Jack and the Beanstalk. It takes the fairy tale and twists it so the titular character must battle a race of giants in order to rescue a princess. Now how do you like those beans?

Master of her 'Make-Believe'

Santigold. When it comes to spreading positivity, this pop princess is totally unstoppable

PAT HEALY
scene@metronews.ca

Santigold became cemented into the lore of summer music three years ago. It all started when an eccentric guy dancing alone on a patch of grass far away from the stage at the Sasquatch Music Festival attracted hundreds of ecstatic revelers to join him, and eventually 5.9 million viewers on YouTube. All the while, singer Santi White was chanting a triumphant chorus of "I've got to be unstoppable."

"That was amazing," says White, reflecting back on the moment. "When we were onstage, we noticed something far off in the distance and just saw this huge part of the crowd running across the field, and I remember afterward we were like, 'Did you see that? What happened?' And then when somebody sent it to me on YouTube I couldn't believe it. I've heard that the video has been used in leadership classes."

This moment is a good metaphor for everything that the music of Santigold represents. The songs are playful and fun, but they are firmly rooted in the notion of spreading positivity.

Releasing a self-titled debut in 2009, Santigold toured for two years and built a loyal following, so that when she released her sophomore album, Master of My Make-Believe earlier this month, the response was not entirely unlike the dancers running across the field to join in on the fun.

"It's great as an artist, starting out, to just spend some time building a fan base," she says. "I was really grateful that the demand was there for so long."

The live show is equally deserving of that demand, with its cross of high energy and high camp. Robotic backup singers flank White and occasionally bust into funny, old-school dance moves. Backup musicians wear rubber flat-top wigs, making them look like comic book versions of ancient Egyptians. Oh, and there's also a two-person horsey that comes out to dance.

"I just closed my eyes one day and I saw lassos and a horse, and I was like, 'We need lassos and a horse!' and everybody looked at me like I was crazy," she says of the eureka moment. "And then me and my girls went online and we found this cool horse outfit and we were like, 'That's the one!' I wanted it to be theatrical in a very do-it-yourself sort of way, like a high school play."

Master of My Make-Believe opens in a call to arms, with the song, GO! against electronic pulses and jungle drums, Santi White sings about how haters have tried to steal her power away, "but they couldn't take it."

"There's truth to all of these songs," she says, "and this one is just watching people in the super mainstream pick and choose and take bits of what's going on in the underground. ... Also, that song is kind of like a tongue-in-cheek fun song. They're kind of like mantra songs for me, where you just need to be like, 'I'm the best!' Especially when you're working on a new record, and you really don't feel like that.

"There's just times when you don't feel like that, and it's nice to be able to sing songs like that to make yourself feel good."

THE SHINS will be performing at Lollapalooza

Choice of Weapon

The Cult Return. Again.

SOUND CHECK
Alan Cross
scene@metronews.ca

Ian Astbury is home — sort of. Reclining in a chair at the back of an appropriately dark downtown club, the singer of the Cult is happy to be back in Ontario where he spent his early years in Hamilton and later years in Toronto.

Now living in LA, he's excitedly talking about the new Cult album, Choice of Weapon, part of which was produced by Canadian Bob Rock.

This reunion seems to be sticking.
(Ruefully) Reunion (laughs). We've been 'reconvening' for seven years. The first one, '95 through '99, I needed time. I needed to walk away. In '99 we signed to Warner Brothers and the industry just went 'kablooie'. It was a difficult time to come back. Then the Doors thing (a semi Doors reunion with Ian as singer) came along. Then I just started popping around doing stuff. There was Trent Reznor. We were potentially working on a group together…

Wait, wait! What potential group with Trent Reznor?
We were kind of toying with the idea of doing something at one point. He was sniffing around. I think he was looking for what his next move was going to be. I'd love to work with Trent at some point, but we'll see.

You've had the same rhythm section in the Cult for a while.
The Cult has actually had several careers within our 31 years. We fought to keep this (incarnation) together.

This is also the most prolific version of the Cult with albums, EPs, reissues all coming over the last couple of years.
I think we just got confident in terms of not judging (the material) before it came out. I'm the worst critic. I criticize it before it's even been written. Working with the Doors was part of this new confidence.

How did the Super Bowl commercial (the mash-up featuring Flo Rida and She Sells Sanctuary) come about?
Budweiser approached us. It's pitched to us as 150 million viewers. We thought this was an amazing opportunity to put the band's name out there. It actually helped me pay back my publishing deal. I signed the worst deals in the '80s. They're still playing it, too.

Where and when your band's brand comes up in the culture, you don't get to choose.

Choice of Weapon is out now.

Lollapalooza®

Summer music festival season is finally here. Instead of being exposed to one or two bands every other week or so like an entry-level fan, festivals give you a chance to squeeze in all of the bands you ever wanted to see (and plenty that you didn't) in one musical cram-session. Not all summer music festivals are created equal, however, so here are a few coming up south of the border that we think are worth schlepping all the way for.

5 Music festivals

Pretty Lights ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Wakarusa

May 31-June 3, Ozark, Ark. wakarusa.com

Supersized festivals like this one are usually just as much for die-hard music fans as they are for tent and dirt enthusiasts, which has made this long-running music and camping festival in Arkansas such a hit. That and the eclectic lineups — this year the slate runs the gamut from heady electronic bro Pretty Lights, to neo-mod soul act Fitz and the Tant-rums, to indie beardos Blitzen Trapper, who were probably going to be hanging around nearby in the woods anyway.

June 7-10, Manchester, Tenn., bonnaroo.com

In the past decade, Bonnaroo has become the ideal by which all other fests are judged, and a great example of what happens when you realize, whoops, you've become super popular and need to book more than just jam bands. This year the likes of Skrillex, Radiohead, Mogwai, Das Racist, GZA, Santigold, The Roots and Foster the People give the nation's hipsters a really confusing idea of what Tennessee is actually like.

Skrillex

David Guetta

Electric Daisy Carnival

June 8-10, Las Vegas
electricdaisycarnival.com

For almost 15 years this has been one of the biggest electronic music festivals in the U.S.. Now that EDC is bigger than ever, it makes sense that the festival would expand exponentially too. Big names like Avicii, Tiesto, Afrojack and David Guetta headline.

All Good Festival

July 19-22, Thornville, Ohio, allgoodfestival.com

Old people like music too, and while they may not do as many drugs as they used to, sometimes it's nice to go back and relive the glory days, if only for a weekend. Phil Lesh & Friends, The Flaming Lips, Bob Weir and Bruce Hornsby with Branford Marsalis, The Allman Brothers Band and your dad will all be there.

The Flaming Lips

Pitchfork Music Festival

July 13-15, Chicago

Lollapalooza

Aug. 3-5, Chicago

pitchfork.com/festivals/chicago/2012
lollapalooza.com

The old marketing brand returns with a lineup that reads like the ghosts of Lollapalooza past (Red Hot Chili Peppers, At the Drive-In), present (Black Keys, Florence + the Machine) and future (Twin Shadow, SBTRKT). The stacked bill almost seems more Pitchforkian than the actual Pitchfork fest going on a couple weeks earlier featuring Grimes, Clams Casino, Sleigh Bells and Beach House.

Kelly Clarkson comes full circle

TV. Former American Idol winner now takes on the role of helping contestants in new series Duets

Kelly Clarkson. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kelly Clarkson says judging someone a la American Idol isn't her style and she loves that she can "walk the walk and not just "talk the talk" as one of the stars of the new ABC series Duets.

The singing competition series — which started Thursday and also airs on Global in Canada — will see Clarkson and fellow recording artists John Legend, Robin Thicke, and Sugarland's Jennifer Nettles performing onstage each week with their hand-picked Duets partners.

The winning partner will receive a recording contract with Hollywood Records.

"In complete honesty, on the most cheesy note possible, that's a lot of the reason why I chose to do the show, (because) whenever I was on Idol I did not have anyone helping," Clarkson, who won American Idol's inaugural season in 2002, said this week in a conference call with reporters.

"It was a brand-new show from the U.K. and nobody had really worked in the U.S. much and nobody really knew what they were doing. The show blew up around the Top 4, so I call it Ghetto Idol. It was the ghetto season: we didn't have anything they have now, and not only that, we couldn't get songs cleared, we couldn't have people that were really helping us as contestants. It was more for the show.

"So I love the fact that 10 years later I get to actually be that person for two people that I get to hand-pick and I get to actually help."

The so-called Duets "superstars" searched the U.S. for two of their own amateur singing partners for the series.

Clarkson, a two-time Grammy Award winner who's said to be the most successful Idol contestant around the world, looked for talent in Nashville and San Diego.

Clarkson said she found four potential duets partners but was only allowed to bring two to the series.

Letting two of them go made her want "to crawl into a hole," said 30-year-old Texas native.

"I would bawl. Like, I didn't handle it well. I didn't like telling people, 'Oh man, you didn't quite make it.'"

Shirley Manson & co. hungry for more

Not Your Kind of People. Scottish frontwoman revels in Garbage return, talks about new album and the keys for surviving the music industry

Shirley Manson still remembers the words of wisdom Bono gave her about keeping a band intact for the long haul.

"Split the money. You have to split the song writing so everyone is equal. (And) don't buy houses, so that you don't get consumed with decorating," he told her.

That might not have been the most coherent advice, but it's worked for Garbage: the rockers are still together, and releasing their first album in seven years this week. Though they went on a hiatus, the band (which includes Steve Marker, Duke Erikson on guitars and keyboards and producer Butch Vig on drums) picks up where they left off with Not Your Kind of People.

All four share songwriting credits on the project — showing they're still following Bono's advice. Manson talked about what brought them back together, Lana Del Rey and being a frontwoman in rock in a recent interview.

It's been seven years — why this album now?
Enough things had happened to us over the course of the last six to seven years that we were all filled up again — ready to make music from a proper place of enthusiasm and fun. I know I sound like a simpleton but it's true. When we first sort of broke out, we made music for pure reasons. We really had an amazing run. Then our band grew more successful, and our record company sold us to a major label, who then had major label desires to brand us. When that didn't really work, they just lost all interest in us. As a result, we were floundering on a label that didn't care about us. It was really joyless. It stripped us of all joy.

What is your songwriting process like?
Any which way, I do write (on my own). I love words. I grew up with a dad who encouraged us to read. So I am pretty well read. But on this record I wanted to just write when I was together with the band, really keep things in the moment, not get too cerebral about anything, just dig in. I think it's about plugging in sometimes with other human beings, which sometimes can be a challenge, because it's uncomfortable some of the time, you know. I think in our culture right now, we are all very comfortable keeping everything at arm's length, being on a computer, and talking to someone on a screen over here. When you are actually in a room with another person, and you are being forced to connect, that can be uncomfortable.

How do you feel about new recording artists not being nurtured, and their quick rise to fame?
A couple things that play nowadays which bother me — one is record companies and patience in regards to their artists. With Lana Del Rey, who is a perfect example, she was doing out of the box fantastically well. She ignited people's imaginations. The record company put her in a position that they never should have put her in. They put her on Saturday Night Live. Absolute insanity. For a seasoned performer like myself, that would be stressful. To put a young artist out there who is the figure of the moment is putting her under unnecessary pressure, at a time when she is already doing good enough.

What advice would you give a female rock singer trying to make it?
I would say figure out what it is that you want to say. When you figure out what it is you want to say, you have to be willing to stand by that. You have to be willing to take a million slaps in the face, and keep standing up.

Bar wants us to feel sorry for her

It's hard out there for a supermodel. Bar Refaeli, who previously dated Leonardo DiCaprio, insists that despite her famous beauty, she gets very little male attention.

"Let's put it out there: no one hits on me. No one flirts with me. It's very sad, actually," Refaeli tells Conan O'Brien during an interview.

"A guy who comes up to me (directly) works. I hope that will happen every now and again."

But if you plan on approaching Refaeli, be sure you've been to the dentist: "I want him to be sweet and kind with good values and morals," she says of what she looks for in a guy.

"But the first thing I notice is his teeth. I have a fetish. He has to have a great smile and really white, bright teeth."

"According to him, we did a lot of hanging out," she tells Wendy Williams in an interview. "But I've got to tell you something, it would never ever happen because he's selfish and he'd be a selfish lover and he'd call his own name out during sex if it ever happened."

Brad Pitt's pre-bachelor party?

MONICA WEYMOUTH
scene@metronews.ca

Although he insists there's no date set for his wedding to Angelina Jolie, Brad Pitt has been treating the Cannes Film Festival like a bit of a bachelor party.

At a black-tie after-party for his new film Killing The Softly, the actor partied with everyone from Kylie Minogue to P.Diddy — who stopped by for a congrats drink before getting back to his yacht — and put back some expensive booze with Jolie nowhere in sight.

"With Brad's impending wedding it almost had the feel of a sophisticated pre-bachelor party, with bottles of $390 Johnnie Walker whisky and plenty of cigars," a guest, who we assume didn't arrive by yacht, tells Us Weekly.

"It was definitely a night for Brad to remember."

You'd think so. But then again, swanky whiskey with Diddy on the French Riviera might be Brad Pitt's equivalent of warm wine coolers with the cat.

J.Lo and her boyfriend to get reality show: Report

While rumours swirl that Jennifer Lopez won't return as a judge on American Idol, she's just signed a deal with the Oxygen Network for a reality show, according to the New York Post.

But the show won't focus on Lopez, sources say. It will instead be about her boyfriend, Casper Smart, who was recently promoted to choreographer for Lopez's upcoming tour, as he "whips her other backup dancers into shape."

Lopez and Smart reportedly plan to keep the focus on their "professional relationship" on the show.

ONE IN THREE CANADIAN KIDS ARE LEFT SITTING ON THE SIDELINES

CANADIAN TIRE JUMPSTART CHARITIES HAS HELPED MORE THAN 400,000 KIDS PARTICIPATE IN SPORTS

In Canada, one in three families cannot afford to enrol their children in organized sport or recreation activities because of financial barriers (Vision Critical 2011).

Ever since she was a little girl, 17-year-old Casey knew she wanted to play professional golf, but her family's budget was stretched with a busy household of seven young children.

"We knew that Casey had extraordinary talent, but we could not afford the expensive membership and green fees," said Casey's mom, Julie MacNeil. "The last thing we wanted was to keep her off the golf course due to affordability. She had such big dreams for herself."

Kids who are able to participate in organized sports and recreation outside of school hours gain many short- and long-term benefits, including increased self-esteem, greater self-confidence, leadership skills, and better grades.

"The benefits of kids participating in sports affects their entire lives, not just their childhood years," said Dan Thompson, president, Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities. "Programs like Canadian Tire Jumpstart are dedicated to removing barriers so financially disadvantaged children can participate in organized sport and recreation."

Despite the financial hardships many Canadian parents are facing, there is a way to get kids into the game, no matter what the barrier is. By covering the cost of registration, equipment and/or transportation, Canadian Tire Jumpstart has helped 417,835 children like Casey get in the game.

"We couldn't be more proud of what our daughter has accomplished," MacNeil said. "This year Casey is heading off to Charleston Southern University on a full golf scholarship, and we have Jumpstart to thank for giving her the opportunity to continue to perfect her game."

Foot fault

After a spell of chilly weather, many are keen to show off their feet — even at restaurant patios while soaking up the rays.

But those in the business of good manners agree that feet on public seats, especially in places where we eat, is a faux pas. "As soon as you get into public areas ... it's no longer yours. It belongs to everybody," said Suzanne Nourse, founder and owner of The Protocol School of Ottawa and co-author of The Power of Civility. "The true meaning of etiquette is not about the knife and fork: it's how we treat other people. And putting your feet up — where somebody else is going to sit down later — is inappropriate."

I'm assuming with the ease of downloading, the idea of an age limit on viewing movies is for the most part out the window.

Back in my underage days, the mere thought of a movie being "Rated R" was a call to arms. We had to try to see it — even if it meant risking being kicked out of the movie theatre.

I'm proud to say the first restricted flick I successfully attended was Saturday Night Fever. Not only was it a great film, it had a soundtrack that spoke of the times.

Hearing that Robin Gibb passed away last weekend got me watching it again (yes, I own it now) and thinking of when all the Bee Gees were Stayin' Alive.

With Robin gone to the big disco in the sky I plan on raising a toast to his talent tonight with a glass of the California's 2010 Big House Red ($10.95 - $12.99).

Combining an insane blend of more than a dozen grapes, it's a fruit bomb that slaps the palate with a burst of blackberry/strawberry fruit and just a touch of spice that easily harmonizes with casual dining in between spins on the dance floor.

Straight-Up Deviled Eggs. Elizabeth Karmel shares her classic recipe for a fave

This recipe makes 24 halves. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When I think about summer, I think about deviled eggs. Beginning with Easter and going straight through September, just about every activity — from camping and cookouts to beach vacations — can be enhanced by a plate of deviled eggs.

It's really just a matter of swapping the garnish to fit the activity or mood.

If I am feeling downhomey, I add pimento cheese to my basic deviled egg mixture. If I want to spice it up, I add pureed chipotle. For the right occasion I'll even get a little fancy and top deviled eggs with caviar.

Still, no matter how good embellished deviled eggs are, my favourite remains what I call "straight-up deviled eggs." They are as advertised — classic and simple. One of the beauties of deviled eggs is how well they travel. That's why I call them party eggs.

Ingredients

Start to finish: 30 minutes (plus overnight chilling)

- 1 dozen large eggs
- 1/3 cup mayonnaise
- 4 tbsp unsalted butter, softened
- 1/4 cup strong Dijon mustard (such as Amora or Maille)
- Zest of 1/2 lemon
- 1 tsp fresh lemon juice
- Pinch garlic powder
- 2 to 4 shakes hot sauce
- Salt
- Smoked paprika or minced fresh chives

1. Fill large bowl with cold water. 2. Place eggs in a large saucepan and cover with cold water. Bring to a boil, cover, then turn off the heat. Let the eggs sit for 15 minutes. Drain the eggs, then transfer them to the bowl of cold water. Let them sit for about 10 minutes, or until cool to the touch.

3. Carefully peel eggs, keeping the whites intact. Cut in half across the middle or lengthwise, depending on your desired final presentation. Use your fingers or a small spoon to gently scoop out the yolks into a medium bowl. Set the whites aside on a platter or deviled egg plate, then cover and refrigerate.

4. Use a fork to mash the yolks until all large pieces are broken up and smooth. Add the mayonnaise, butter, mustard, lemon zest and juice, garlic powder and hot sauce. Stir well. Taste and season with salt. Transfer the mixture to a pastry bag or plastic zip-close bag and refrigerate overnight.

5. Just before serving, snip off the tip of the piping bag (or one of the bottom corners of a zip-close bag) and squeeze the deviled egg mixture into the egg whites. Alternatively, you can use a small spoon to fill the egg white "boats" with the yolk mixture, but the presentation is less attractive. Sprinkle the eggs with smoked paprika for classic eggs, or chives for a fancier version. Serve chilled. No looking back for Rangers in Game 6

NHL. Both teams are downplaying memories of Messier's guarantee in '94

Eighteen years ago, Mark Messier set the stage for one of sports' most dramatic moments.

On the eve of the New York Rangers' must-win Game 6 against the Devils in New Jersey in the 1994 Eastern Conference final, Messier guaranteed his team would force a deciding contest back at Madison Square Garden.

The Rangers not only won, Messier backed up his boast with a hat trick.

Fast forward to now. The teams once more head to a Game 6, in New Jersey, with the Rangers — again the East's top team — down 3-2, needing a win to stay alive.

That's where the similarity ends.

This time, New York really isn't the star-laden team that ended the franchise's half-century Stanley Cup drought back in 1994.

The Devils have shown repeatedly in this best-of-seven series they are just as good as their longtime, cross-river rivals. The only game the Rangers dominated was Game 5, and the Devils won 5-3.

Devils goaltender Martin Brodeur is the only player remaining from the memorable 1994 series. Now 40, he was the difference on Wednesday night in New York.

"I don't see anything that is similar," Brodeur said Thursday in a conference call. "I know if you guys look at it, it looks the same. But it's different teams and a different way of playing the game. That's 18 years ago. That's a long time. I know I'm feeling a lot different. I'm feeling a lot more appreciative of what's going on."

Mark Messier celebrates a goal against the Vancouver Canucks in Game 7 of the Stanley Cup final in 1994 in New York. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rangers coach John Tortorella downplayed the comparison, saying his players were not even thinking about it.

"Not to disrespect what happened," he said, "but that has nothing to do with how we're preparing."

The Devils are in position to advance to their first Stanley Cup final since 2003 and a meeting with the Los Angeles Kings, starting next week. All they have to do is win on either Friday here or Sunday in New York, where they have already won two of three.

"I don't think we're looking at two chances," said New Jersey forward Dainius Zubrus. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guardini, who finished last in the previous stage, timed his sprint to perfection to win in three hours 52 seconds. Roberto Ferrari was third.

It is the fifth victory for an Italian rider this year, equalling the country's 1974 record.

Rodriguez maintained his 30-second lead over Victoria's Ryder Hesjedal in the overall standings after Hesjedal finished 67th.

Impending Game 7 brings back memories for Erving

NBA. Former 76er Dr. J getting nostalgic as old rivals prepare for deciding game

Julius Erving strolled through the 76ers locker-room as Philadelphia celebrated beating the Celtics to set up another Game 7 in Boston.

"It brings back all the memories," the Hall of Famer said after the Sixers forced the first seventh game between the old rivals since he teamed with Andrew Toney to lead Philadelphia past Boston and into the 1982 NBA finals. "It seemed like it always came down to them.... Coming out of the East, (it) was always Boston or Philly."

Jrue Holiday scored 20 points and Elton Brand had 13 points and 10 rebounds on Wednesday night to lead the 76ers to an 82-75 victory over the Celtics that left the Eastern Conference semifinals tied 3-3. Both teams took the day off on Thursday to rest up for Game 7 in Boston on Saturday.

"That's all we wanted was to win ... and give ourselves a chance to go into Boston and see what happens on Saturday in Game 7," Sixers coach Doug Collins said after his team stayed alive. "I want more. I want more. We're going to get greedy, and we want more. We've fought, we've worked, and we've gone through a lot as a team."

Roots of a rivalry

The Sixers and Celtics met 12 times in the playoffs from 1953-69 and five more times from 1977-85, fomenting an animosity that stretched from Bob Cousy and the Syracuse Nationals through Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain and into the era of Dr. J and Boston's original Big Three of Kevin McHale, Robert Parish and Larry Bird.

Perjury trial. David Segui says McNamee told him about Clemens' 'darts'

David Segui remembered "darts" but not dates.

The former major-leaguer testified for the prosecution Thursday in the Roger Clemens perjury trial, and he would have made a much better witness if he kept a better mental calendar. As it was, Segui was able to recall one specific moment that helped the government's case: a telephone conversation he says he had with Clemens' strength coach 11 years ago.

"He mentioned that he had kept darts to get his wife off his back," Segui said.

Segui echoed the testimony of the six-week-old trial's key witness. Brian McNamee told the jury last week that he saved a needle and other materials from an alleged steroids injection of Clemens in 2001. McNamee testified he was trying to allay his wife's fears he would take all the blame if the drug use was discovered.

"He mentioned that the relationship between Brian and Roger had put stress on his married life," said Segui, recalling other parts of the conversation.

Segui, who has acknowledged using performance-enhancing drugs during his 15-year baseball career with seven teams, wasn't allowed to say that "darts" means "needles." The judge ruled that the jurors will have to make that assumption themselves — unless McNamee were to return to the stand to explain.

Segui, who became friends with McNamee when they met in Toronto during the 1999 season, also wasn't allowed to relate a similar "darts" conversation because he couldn't remember when it happened.

"I'm not good with dates. I don't log my life," said Segui, who also couldn't remember at what point during the '99 season he was traded from Seattle to Toronto.

Clemens is charged with lying to Congress in 2008 when he denied using steroids and human growth hormone. McNamee says he injected Clemens with both substances and saved some of the waste from the 2001 injection in a beer can.

Thames running out of chances in Toronto

ethan.rotberg@metronews.ca

Eric Thames, the person, is nothing like Edwin Encarnacion.

The always-grinning Thames emits an aura of exuberance. His post-game interviews give off a casual air, as though he's conversing with his Pepperdine University roommate. His Twitter feed is filled with book recommendations and GarageBand music creations. His captivating facial hair is always a talking point.

Encarnacion, on the other hand — the former whipping boy turned offensive Goliath — crushes home runs with a solemn demeanour. If not for the accompanying bat flip, you could be fooled into thinking "EE" was heartbroken by the round-tripper.

But what ties them together is the early part of their Blue Jays careers.

Both showed pop: Encarnacion had 21 home runs in 96 games in 2010, while Thames had 12 home runs in 95 games last year. When they each struggled with the bat to begin their second campaigns in Toronto, it was a concern.

But it was their defensive play that really made them liabilities.

Encarnacion made three errors in the first two games in 2011. Thames, according to UZR — a metric that assigns a run value to a player's defence — is the fourth-worst defensive outfielder in the majors this season.

For Encarnacion, all it took was a move to DH last year; his hitting quickly improved. His shortcomings at third base were affecting the rest of his game, and it showed.

By the numbers

Eric Thames has struck out 38 times compared to only nine walks this season.

It's trickier for Thames. With Encarnacion firmly anchored at DH, Thames will have to improve his defence if he wants fans — and the manager — to look past a prolonged offensive slump.

After beating out Travis Snider for the left-field job in spring training, Thames' window to prove he belongs is shrinking.

Snider, currently nursing a sore wrist in Triple-A Las Vegas, is one red-eye flight away.

Grey Cup party train back on rails for 2012

The Wild West came to Toronto in 1948 when the Stampeders swept to town with their chuckwagons for the Grey Cup against Ottawa. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

CFL. Organizers make plans to recreate wild celebrations in Toronto 64 years later

The year was 1948. Louis St. Laurent had just become Canada's 12th prime minister, gas was 26 cents a gallon and you could buy a loaf of bread for 14 cents.

And, oh, yes, a horse was apparently ridden into the lobby of Toronto's Royal York Hotel following Calgary's 12-7 win over the Ottawa Rough Riders at Varsity Stadium. Meanwhile Stampeders fans, most of whom arrived in town on a train, partied on the street.

The three-day trip aboard a 14-car train named the Stampeder Special with 250 fans, chuckwagons and horses made national headlines.

It will happen again if a group of CFL fanatics have anything to say about it. To help celebrate the 100th Grey Cup, the infamous train ride is being recreated by members of the Calgary Stampeders Grey Cup committee.

"Back in 1948 you could take a train from Calgary to Toronto, but times have drastically changed. There is no passenger train out of Calgary heading east anymore," said Dave Miller, a committee member for 20 years, and one of the organizers of the Grey Cup Train Experience.

Getting there

Prices for the Grey Cup Train Experience range from $3,199 for one adult to $2,499 for four people sharing a hotel room.

"So we went for Plan B. We're going to start the venture in Calgary and take a bus to Edmonton and then catch the midnight train out of there for Toronto on Nov. 19."

Miller hopes Lions, Eskimos, Roughriders and Blue Bombers fans will hop on the train as it makes its way across the Prairies, stopping in Saskatoon and Winnipeg.

The hundreds of fans who took that first trip in 1948 were responsible for turning the Grey Cup into a week-long party, changing the game forever into a national celebration. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Horoscope

Aries | March 21 - April 20. You have a way with words and you must use them today to get what it is that you need.

Taurus | April 21 - May 21. If you get the chance to travel today, maybe to some place you have not been in a while, take it, no matter what responsibilities you have.

Gemini | May 22 - June 20. You need to get out into the world and make sure important people know who you are.

Cancer | June 21 - July 22. Let other people worry about the small stuff while you focus on the future and the many wonderful things it has to offer you.

Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. You'll come to a decision concerning your next big move. Whatever you decide, you must go for it 100 per cent.

Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. You're now in the perfect position to leave your mark on the world. Make sure it's a positive one.

Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Old must give way to new sooner or later, and in your case it is most likely sooner. The planets indicate it is time to stop holding on to the past.

Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. Nothing in life is worth getting worked up about – right? Wrong! You're a Scorpio and that means you are passionate by nature.

Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. The planets warn you are being too hard on yourself. Whatever mistake you made, forgive yourself.

Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20. Make an effort to find out why a certain person is behaving in a certain way. They're human, just like you.

Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. You'll have to make a choice of some sort today and it's very much a choice between future and past.

Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. Try to read the signals today. Try to predict what other people are going to do before they actually do it. It's not that hard.
